<<Cursive Writing (平装)>>

内容概要

Easy Wipe-off workbooks provide children with an entertaining way to practice important school skills. They were designed and developed in consultation with Edward Z. Tronick, Ph.D., Harvard School of Education, Chief of the Child Development Unit at Children's Hospital, Harvard Medical School. These workbooks offer a valuable learning experience adults and children can share.

The will help children build confidence while practicing the correct way to write letters and words. Introduce one letter at a time. Once children are comfortable tracing and writing letters on the practice lines, advance to the sentences at the bottom of each page. Delightful illustrations aid children in reading the fun sentences before writing practice. Answers can be written in crayon, dry erase marker, or washable marker. The practice letters and words can be easily erased with a clean, dry cloth or tissue, so that page can be practiced again and again.

Dr. Edward Z. Tronick renowned psychologist and researcher, is one of the world's leading experts on children and parenting. Along with T. Berry Brazelton, Dr. Edward Z. Tronick co-founded the Child Development Unit at Harvard Medical School and continues today as its Chief.

Dr. Tronick has lectured throughout the world and also conducts leading-edge research and education on early childhood development at the Harvard School of Education.
