章节摘录

When you play sports or do exercise in a summer afternoon, will you feel like some ice cream ?

If so, you may be interested to know how ice cream has become a friend to many. Ice cream came from the East at the time when Marco Polo saw people eating it there. He brought back the idea later to his home country, Italy. From Italy the idea was carried to France. People in France liked ice cream so much that they didnt want other people to know about it. However, it didnt take the other countries a long time to love the taste of ice cream.

The first wholesale ice cream factory was started in the United States in 1851. The business of ice cream grew bigger after the refrigerator was developed around 1900. It is now a business all over the world and no matter where you go, you may see people eating ice cream happily.
