章节摘录

Task 3 Directions : Read the following passage and then decide whether the statements (numbered 46 through 50) are true or false. Write the "T" for "true" and "F" for "false". From Monday until Friday most people are busy working or studying, but in the evenings and on weekends they are free to rest and enjoy themselves. Some watch television or go to see films; others take part in sports. It depends on one's interests. There are many different ways we spend our spare time. Almost everyone has some kind of hobby. It may be anything from collecting stamps to making model airplanes. Some hobbies are very expensive, but others don't cost anything at all. Some collections are worth a lot of money; others are valuable only to their owners. I know a man who has a coin collection worth several thousand dollars. A short time ago he bought an unusual fifty-cent piece worth 250 dollars ! He was very happy and thought the price was just right. On the other hand, my youngest brother collects match boxes. He has almost 600 of them, but I don't think that they are worth any money. However, to my brother they are very valuable. Nothing makes him happier than to find new matchboxes for his collection. That's what a hobby means, I guess. It is something we like to do in our spare time simply for the fun of it. The value in dollars is not important, but the pleasure it gives us is.

46. All the people are busy working or studying in the evenings and on weekends. () 47. People spent their spare time in many different ways. () 48. My youngest brother has already got 600 matchboxes. () 49. To find a new matchbox is the happiest thing for my youngest brother to do. () 50. My youngest brother's collection must be worth a lot of money. ()

Task 4 Directions : The following is a reference index of a book. After reading it, you are required to find the items equivalent to those given in Chinese in the table below. Then you should put the corresponding letters in the brackets numbered 51 through 55.

A - Types of Industry B - Names of Factory C - Factory Institutions D - Staff and Workers E - Energy Revolution F - Industrial Material G - Industrial Wastes and Pollution H - Enterprise Management I - Kinds of Enterprises J - Management of Science and Technology

Task 5 Directions : Read the following passage about prices. After reading it, you are required to give short answers to the questions (No. 56 through No. 60). The price system in the United States is very complex. It is composed of the prices of all the products bought and sold in the economy as well as those of a lot of services, including labor and transportation. The interrelationships (相互关心) of all these prices make up the "system" of prices. The price of any particular product or service is linked to a broad, complicated system of prices in which everything seems to depend more or less upon everything else. If one asks a group of people what price is, many would reply that price is an amount of money paid by the buyer to the seller of a product or service. For a complete understanding of a price in any particular transaction, much more than the amount of money involved must be known. Both the buyer and seller should be familiar with not only the money amount, but with the quantity and quality of the product or service to be exchanged. Besides, they should also know the time and place at which the exchange will take place and payment will be made, the form of money to be used, the credit terms and discounts that apply to the transaction, guarantees on the product or service, and other factors. In other words, both buyers and sellers should be fully aware of all the factors in order that they may evaluate a given price.
