章节摘录

The good man asked a tree. The tree said, " I give shade (树荫) , And yet I am cut frown. Let the tiger eat you. "

Next, the good man asked a bird. The bird said, "I hurt no one. Yet peo-ple hunt and kill me. Let the tiger eat you. "

The last one that the good man asked was a road. The road said, "I don't care if the tiger eats you. People could not get along too well without me. Yet all day and all night people step on me without even a ' thank you'. " The tiger was ready to eat the good man. Just then a dog came by. "What is happening ?

"asked the dog. The man told the dog the whole story. "I don't understand," said the dog, "The tiger wants to eat you because you put him in a cage ?

" "No, no," said the man. "Some other men put him in a cage. " "Oh," the dog said, "He is going to eat you because you do not have a cage. " "Silly dog !

" the tiger cried, "Don't you understand ?

I was in the cage. This man let me out. " "Oh, I see," the dog said, "When the man was in the cage, you let him out. " "I was in the cage !

" the tiger cried, "In this way !

" with that, he jumped back into the cage. At once, the dog closed the door of the cage. "Oh," the dog laughed, "At last I understand !

" The good man and the dog walked off. The tiger looked sad in the cage. If he waited long e-nough, perhaps another good man would come by.
