作者简介

李申清, Li Shen-qing was born in Hubei Province, China, in 1952. His path toward becoming a Chinesemedical practitioner had striking parallels to his predecessor, Li Shi-zhen.Li Shen-qing's grandfather was a well-known practitioner of Chinese medicine who passedaway in the 1940s leaving his family with an extensive library of pre-modern medical books. These treasures provided the basis for much of Shen-ging's medical knowledge. Access toboth family lineage and textual resources placed Li Shen-qing into a unique position thatenabled him to gain mastery of pulse diagnosis. Li Shen-qing's papers have been published in the Chinese Medicine Journal, Forum of World's Renowned Physicians, Selected Medical Papers of China, Selected Contemporary Medical Papers of China, and international medical journals. He has books published by Ancient Chinese Medicine Books Publishing House and he has an extensive publishing record with People's Medicine Publishing House. Li has a unique approach to clinical practice that combines Li Shi-zhen style pulse diagnosis with tuina. During his illustrious career, Shen-qing designed advanced tui na curriculum forBeijing University of Chinese Medicine. Shen-qing's work successfully fills in the missingpieces of Chinese tui na textbooks according to the Secretary-General of China's MassageExperts Committee, Professor Wang Guo-shun. These works were published by PMPH inChinese, English, German, French, and Spanish. Shen-ging also edited Guidelines to the Study of Massage Points, now a textbook published by Science Publishing House. After gaining recognition as a medical practitioner, Shen-ging focused in statistics. He thenapplied statistical models to the systematic study of pulse diagnosis literature attributed to LiShi-zhen. These studies form the basis of the graphic representations in this book.Li Shen-qing is the essence of humility, charm, warmth, care, and knowledge. Li Shen-qinghas deep respect for the shared home province with Li Shi-zhen. The ability to carry on LiShi-zhen's study of pulse diagnosis and share it internationally is also a great privilege. Hispragmatic world view is summed in his motto, to "simplify the complicated issues, and makethe simple issues practical."
