<<国际形势与安全战略>>

内容概要

《国际形势与安全战略:英文》内容简介：As far as China is concerned, the relations with the major powers, the neighboring countries and the developing countries, and multilateral relations compose the whole picture of its overall international strategic landscape, with its relations with the major powers as the focal points, that with the neighboring countries as the essential points, that with the developing countries as the basic points, and multilateral relations as the shining points.

Drawing from the reasonable elements of existing concepts, such as common security, mutual security, cooperative security', comprehensive Security and collective security, China has put forward a new security concept, with mutual trust, mutual benefit, equality,, and coordination" as its core. As I understand, the former elements supplement each other and form an organic whole. Mutual trust is the foundation of the new security concept, mutual benefit its objective, equality its guarantee, and coordination the way it operates.

章节摘录

As we enter the new century, the world is still not peaceful. Hegemonism, power politics and military interventionism still exist and are developing further. Various factors still exist that may induce armed conflicts and local wars, or even large-scale local wars of high intensity and under hi-tech conditions. Nevertheless, the voices for peace, stability and development around the world are getting even louder. The forces for peace which oppose hegemonism and power politics are growing. A new world war can still be avoided for a fairly long time to come. The international situation, in general, will continue to relax while peace and development will remain the major themes of our times at the dawn of the new century. There is no doubt that what we are building is socialism with Chinese characteristics and there is bound to be contradictions and struggles with Western capitalism. However, one must look at the issue from a historical perspective and in a comprehensive and objective manner. The socialist movement has a history of only 150-plus years. It has developed and made continuous progress, from the Communist League in 1847 to the Russian Bolsheviks, and finally to the Chinese Communist Party, and from the Communist Manifesto and scientific socialism of 1848 to China's Mao Zedong Thought, Deng Xiaoping's theory and Comrade Jiang Zemin's important thesis of the " Three Represents " . The "Three Represents" are an abbreviated version of Jiang's thesis that the CPC must always represent the development trend of China's advanced productive forces, represent the orientation of China's advanced culture and represent the fundamental interests of the overwhelming majority of the Chinese people. In the 20th Century, socialism experienced both ups and downs. It made brilliant achievements, but also suffered setbacks. There were high tides and low tides. However, setbacks and low tides do not mean that socialism has no future.
