章节摘录

The traditional role of the Chinese teacher is defined as one who fosters ethics , imparts knowledge and skills , and unravels puzzles. However , this traditional good teacher ideal need some change for today's education in China. We need an "inspiring teacher" for the country's growing generation. Instead of "unravelling puzzles" , as the ancient Chinese put it , an inspiring teacher should seek to "puzzle" and "baffle" his students , filling their minds with questions that they themselves wish to answer. We live in an information age , where we are inundated with tons of information from all kinds of sources , all of which need to be processed. So an inspiring teacher should also cultivate students' abilities to process huge swathes of information. This is the first step in learning the ability to tell truth from falsehood , which is a must for problem-solving in contemporary society. Moreover , an inspiring teacher should encourage his students to have dreams and to strive to make those dreams come true. He should fuel their aspirations for truth , not just their self is ambition.
