章节摘录

International Trade (国际贸易) Gains from Trade and Regional Agreements In the earlier chapter we suggested that trade brings gains to a country , but at the same time , there are both winners and losers . The Stolper-Samuelson theorem made that especially clear . In the Heckscher-Ohlin model the abundant factor gains from trade (through the rise in the relative export price increasing the real return to that factor , used intensively in exports) , while the scarce factor loses from trade (through the fall in the relative import price lowering the real return to that factor) . Can we be sure that the gains always exceed the losses? That is the topic of this chapter . We begin with a discussion of “ lump sum transfers ” . whereby the government has the ability to tax the gainers and transfer income to the losers , without changing their behavior in the process . That is , the lump sum transfers are assumed to be non - distorting . We show that it is indeed possible to achieve Pareto gains from trade , i . e . , a situation where everyone gains .
