章节摘录

Secondly , The poorer tenants will have something valuable of their own , which by law may be made liable to distress and help to pay their landlord's rent , their corn and cattle being already seized , and money a thing unknown. Thirdly , Whereas the maintenance of an hundred thousand children , from twoyears old and upward , cannot be computed at less than ten shillings a-piece per annum , the nation's stock will be thereby increased fifty thousand pounds per annum , beside the profit of a new dish introduced to the tables of all gentlemen of fortune in the kingdom who have any refinement in taste. And the money will circulate among ourselves , the goods being entirely of our own growth and manufacture. Fourthly , The constant breeders , beside the gain of eight shillings sterling per annum by the sale of their children , will be rid of the charge of maintaining them after the first year. Fifthly , This food would likewise bring great custom to taverns ; where the vintners will certainly be so prudent as to procure the best receipts for dressing it to perfection , and consequently have their houses frequented by all the fine gentlemen , who justly value themselves upon their knowledge in good eating: and a skilful cook , who understands how to oblige his guests , will contrive to make it as expensive as they please.
