版权页：插图：John was a photographer. He often took pictures on the street. One day he happened to take a picture of a man who was stealing money from an old woman's handbag. After he developed the film, he sent it to a policeman at once. With the picture, the policeman caught the thief easily and returned the money to the old woman. After that John started to visit different places around the world. He often helped people who were not careful with their handbags.
