FRANCOIS PICAUD

章节摘录

“ Now , if you will come on board , M.Morrel , ” said Dant6s , observing the owner'simpatience , “ here is your supercargo , M.

Danglars , coming out of his cabin , who willfurnish you with every particular.

As for me , I must look after the anchoring , and dressthe ship in mourning.

“ The owner did not wait to be twice invited.

He seized a rope which Dant-s flung tohim , and , with an activity that would have done credit to a sailor
 , climbed up the sideof the ship , whilst the young man , going to his task , left the conversation to theindividual whom he had announced under the name of Danglars , who now coming outof the cabin advanced toward the owner.

He was a man of twenty-five or twenty-sixyears of age , of unprepossessing countenance , obsequious to his superiors , insolent tohis inferiors; and then , besides his position as responsible agent on board , which isalways obnoxious to the sailors , he was as much disliked by the crew as EdmondDant+s was beloved by them.

“ Well , M.

Morrel , ” said Danglars , “ you have heard of the misfortune that hasbefallen us? ” “ Yes - yes! poor Captain Leclere! He was a brave and an honest man! ” “ And a first-rate seaman , above all , grown old between sky and ocean , as should aman charged with the interests of a house so important as that of Morrel and Son , ” replied Danglars.

” But , “ replied the owner , following with his look Dant-s , who was watching theanchoring of his vessel ,
” it seems to me that a sailor needs not to be so old as you say , Danglars , to understand his business; for our friend Edmond there does his , it seems tome , like a man who has no need to ask instruction from any one.

” “ Yes , ” said Danglars , casting toward Edmond a look in which a feeling of hate wasstrongly visible.

“ Yes , he is young , and youth is invariably self-confident.

Scarcely wasthe captain's breath out of his body than he assumed the command without consultingany one , and he caused us to lose a day and a half at the Isle of Elba , instead of makingfor Marseilles direct.
