章节摘录

Right after this false alarm Gui Ping changed his phone and revealed the new number to nobody but a few friends , relatives and work companions , which resulted in many problems for others and himself , and drew many complaints. Whatever happened , Gui Ping went all out to hold on. He was determined to remove all problems arising from the cell phone , to say goodbye to the past , to live his life , to take hold himself and escape the control of the cell phone. At last the phone lay on the desk peacefully , but Gui Ping was not at peace , and felt butterflies fluttering in his stomach. The phone had stopped harassing him , but he began to harass the phone by picking it up every now and then in case of missing calls. No calls or messages came in , however. He wondered whether something was wrong with the ring tone on the new phone and set it to vibrating mode , but it still did not vibrate. He dialed the number of his office , and got through , and he dialed his new phone number with his office phone and also got through , but when there was still nothing after another while , he sent a message to his wife asking , "How are you ?

" The message flew out , and he soon saw his wife's reply , "What do you mean ?

" Jud ging from the message , she was very irritated. Sure enough , her call soon followed , "What's wrong with you ?

" It's weird. No calls or messages have come in all day , " Gui Ping replied. "You're weird. You always complain about the huge number of calls and problems , but now you've grown anxious on your vacation." After saying this she hung up. Gui Ping was aware there was no problem with his phone but he still felt uneasy , so he called a colleague asking , "Did you call me this morning ?

" The colleague said no. He called a friend , asking , "Did you send me a message this morning ?

" No , the friend answered. Accompanied by the deathly silence of his new phone , Gui Ping could not help but miss the old one. He dialed the old number with the new phone just to hear : "Sorry , the number you dialed is out of service." He called Li over very anxiously , and questioned him , "You put my old number out of service ?

" "Director Gui , you had me get you a new number." "Yes , but I never said I don't need the old one anymore. It had been with me for so many years , like a friend , how could you drop it ?

" "Stay cool , Director Gui. I didn't throw it away. I got you a suspension and retention service , five yuan every month , and you can hold on to the number and revive it again anytime." After a short speechless moment , Gui Ping asked , "What made you think of this service for me ?

" "Foresight. I predicted you would want it back."
