章节摘录

Long after the 1998 World Cup was won , disappointed fans were still cursing the disputed refereeing decisions that denied victory to their team. A researcher was appointed to study the performance of some top referees. The researcher organized an experimental tournament involving four youth teams. Each match lasted an hour , divided into three periods of 20 minutes during which different referees were in charge.

Observers noted down the referees errors , of which there were 61 over the tournament. Converted to a standard match of 90 minutes , each referee made almost 23 mistakes , a remarkably high number. The researcher then studied the videotapes to analyse the matches in detail. Surprisingly , he found that errors were more likely when the referees were close to the incident. When the officials got it right , they were , on average , 17 meters away from the action. The average distance in the case of errors was 12 meters. The research shows the optimum distance is about 20 meters.
