章节摘录

In a classroom in any country, the teacher teaches more than art or history or language. He or she teaches what is known as the hidden course—the culture of that country. A society such as the United States, people with different history, culture and language join together and think highly of individualism. Their education as a part of the society, also think of this greatly. Teachers try to make each student special. Students do not have to remember a lot of information; instead, they work alone and find answers by themselves. There is often a discussion in the classroom. At an early age students learn to have their own ideas. Their education encourages personal thought. The importance is put on how to arrive at an answer and not simply to get the correct answer.
