Reader Readers of the school newspaper (including students, teachers and parents) Suggested outline Para. 1 General background about Miss Chen (How long has she been teaching at your school ?
Which grade does she teach ?
What subjects does she teach ?
) Para. 2 How the students feel about her (Why is she so likeable ?
How does she teach her students ?
Any examples ?
) Para. 3 How she feels about the school and the students Para. 4 What the most important thing is in her life Para. 5 How you feel about Miss Chen (both during and after the interview) Skills development Paragraphing Explain to students that for every piece of writing, paragraphing is very important. If we throw all the facts and ideas together, it will be difficult for readers to understand. Dividing a text into paragraphs enhances its clarity. Most articles of this type should have at least three paragraphs: an introduction, the main body and a conclusion. The main body can be further divided into several paragraphs. Usually there should be one main idea in each paragraph.
