章节摘录

The old lady was more interested in Duke Michael of Strel-sau than in the new King. The Castle of Zenda and all the land around it belonged to the Duke, but the old lady said, It's not enough. Duke Michael should be king. He spends all his time with us. Every Ruritania knows him, but we never see the new King. But the daughter cried, Oh no, I hate Black Michael. I want a red Elphberg - and the King, our friend Johann says, is very red. Johann works for the Duke and has seen the King. In fact, the King is staying just outside Zenda now, she added. He's resting at the Duke's house in the forest before going onto Strel-sau on Wednesday for his coronation. The Duke is already in Strel-sau, getting everything ready. They're friends?

I asked. Friends who want the same place and the same wife, the pretty girl replied. The Duke wants to marry his cousin, Princess Flavia, but people say she's going to be King Rudolf's wife and the Queen. Just then their friend, Johann, entered the room. We have a visitor, Johann, the girl's mother said, and Johann turned towards me. But when he saw me, he stepped back, with a look of wonder on his face. What's the matter, Johann?

the daughter asked. Good evening, sir, Johann said, still staring at me. He didn't seem to like what he saw.
