章节摘录

Last week I gave a speech to beginning teachers and mentors in a large school district in my state. I always begin my presentations by trying to get to know my audience , much like the way I get to know the students in my classroom on the first day of school. So I begin by playing a little game I call "That's Me !

" I say a statement like "I am a high school teacher" and all the high school teachers jump up and shout , "That's Me !

" It's just loads of fun. So on this day I named everything I could think of from beginning teachers to mentors to elementary , middle , and high school teachers to administrators. When I finished I asked , "Did I forget anyone ?

" All of a sudden a gang of teachers jumped up and yelled , "Preschool teachers !

" Preschool teachers...oh my gosh !

How could I have forgotten about them ?

I acknowledged them and apologized for the oversight. I then took a minute to tell them about my experience with my granddaughter Taylor as she started preschool last August. It had been a defining moment. So as I was driving home , I had a little time (three hours , to be exact) to think about the role of the preschool teacher. I was thinking about how cute those little kiddies are and how they never curse at the teacher or forget their homework. I had some nice little daydreams about becoming a preschool teacher , just another idea in a long list of potential opportunities that I've thought about recently. I must be having a career identity crisis. Today I had the chance to test my skills. I had Taylor over so I thought we'd have some schooltime after nap. We started a little shaky , though. I first became aware that Taylor was awake when I heard her shrieking , "It's a HEART ATTACK !

It's a HEART ATTACK !

" from the bed. Apparently , the dog was excited to hear Taylor rustling in the covers and jumped on her as a friendly doggie greeting. Taylor was not quite as excited. After a nice snack of cheese nips and apple juice , I gathered the materials and started "school." First I wrote Taylor's name in big letters with my marker and asked her to copy them with hers. She did really well with "T". She did pretty well with "A". Then she took the marker and wrote on my sleeve. Realizing that the first green mark was not nearly big enough , she made another one , this time longer and thicker , and running the length of my arm. Before I could reprimand her , she began writing on her own hand.
