章节摘录

If you look at a penguin , you will see immediately that it looks like a little person. It not only wears a white shirt and a black jacket , but it often has a smart yellow tie as well !

Perhaps because of this , many childrens stories have been written about penguins , yet many of these stories contain false information. For example , the penguins in stories always live in the Arctic Circle. In real life , there are no penguins in the northern half of the world , either in the Arctic or anywhere else. There are twenty different kinds of penguin in the world , and they are all native to the southern hemisphere. Furthermore , penguins in stories live not only on land , but on snow and ice as well. In fact , most penguins live neither on land nor on ice. They spend about seventy-five per cent of their lives at sea , and most penguins prefer open water with no ice. Only the Emperor Penguin swims in the icy waters of the southern Antarctic and lays its eggs in the winter. Most of the worlds penguins live in the seas around New Zealand , South Africa and South America. They lay their eggs on quiet coasts and islands , where they feel safe from snakes and foxes.
