章节摘录

In widely dispread ownership , managers and even employees of alienation act as an independent reality of interest groups , supervision of one person , one vote principle of the meaning of democracy has been weakened , instead , it has required exclusion of the same stock with the right investors , and has provided a breedingground for the "internal control". It should be abandoned or modified. Therefore , integration into the joint-stock components in the RCC established the equity investment in shares. In some extent , investors may to some extent determine the number of share of the right to vote. There is a correspondingly growing awareness of democratic management and supervision of consciousness. However , the proportion of investment in stocks is still very low. In the first batch of pilot provinces (cities and districts) , the majority is less than 30%. This shows that companies , big agriculture , individual industrial and commercial households , and urban residents don't have enough confidence in the long-term sustainability of the sound development of RCC as well as the right and interests of future investment in stocks.
