章节摘录

CHAPTER 1 The family of Dashwood had long been settled in Sussex, and their residence was at Norland Park, in the centre of their property, where, for many generations, they had lived in so respectable a manner as to engage the general good opinion of their surrounding acquaintances. The late owner of this estate was a single man, who lived to a very advanced age, and who for many years of his life, had a constant companion and housekeeper in his sister. But her death, which happened ten years before his own, produced a great alteration in his home; for to supply her loss, he invited and received into his house the family of his nephew, Mr. Henry Dashwood, the legal inheritor of the Norland estate, and the person to whom he intended to give all his fortune and property to. In the society of his nephew and niece, and their children, the old Gentleman's days were comfortably spent. By a former marriage, Mr. Henry Dashwood had one son, by his present lady, three daughters. The son, a steady respectable young man, was amply provided for by the fortune of his mother, which had been large. By his own marriage, likewise, he added to his wealth. To him therefore the succession to the Norland estate was not so really important as to his sisters; for their fortune, independent of what might arise to them from their father's inheriting that property, could be but small. Their mother had nothing, and their father only seven thousand pounds in his own disposal; for the remainder of his first wife's fortune was also secured to her child, and he had only a Life-interest in it. The old gentleman died. his will was read, and like almost every other will, gave as much disappointment as pleasure. He was neither unjust or ungrateful to his nephew, Mr. Henry Dashwood, but left him the property with specific instructions that it must be passed down to his son, who had already a great fortune. Dashwood had wished for it more for the sake of his wife and daughters than for himself or his son. He now had no way to provide for his wife and daughters, those who were most dear to him, and who were desperately in need of a fortune. The old gentleman meant not to be unkind, however, and, as a mark of his affection for the three girls, he left them a thousand pounds apiece. Mr. Dashwood's disappointment was, at first, severe; but his temper was cheerful and hopeful he would somehow be able to provide his daughters with some fortune. Unexpectedly, however, he died less than a year after the old gentleman; and ten thousand pounds, including the late legacies, was all that remained for his widow and daughters.

选择“床头灯”的N个理由 真正适合中高级英语学习者的原汁原味英语读物 1.难度适中：市面上大多数英语读物，要么难度过低，近似于中学水平的简写本；要么过于艰深，读者不得不“知难而退”。

纯英文版即可避免此种现象发生。

6.便于教师教学使用。
