章节摘录

I undressed and got into my berth , but I could not sleep. I lay awake for some time , looking at the porthole and wondering if it would open. I was half-asleep when I felt a sudden ice-cold draught blowing in and bringing with it drops of sea-water. I jumped up and the rolling of the ship threw me violently to the other side of the cabin. I struggled to my feet. Then I saw that the porthole was wide open -and hooked back! Brisbane saw that we were finding it hard to believe his story , for he said , “ This was no nightmare , the result of eating too much at dinner. This is the truth that I ‘ m telling you. If you had seen the bruises I had from my fall , you would believe me now. ” “ Go on. Go on. ” we begged him. Whether we believed him or not , we were deeply interested in his story. “ I shut the porthole , ” went on Brisbane , “ and turned the screw with all my strength. Look at these , ” he said , showing us his powerful hands. “ I turned that screw with these although it was very heavy and hard to turn. I screwed the porthole tight and I was certain that it could not be opened by any human being or even by any movement of the ship. Well , I stood there , in the dark. for about a quarter of an hour , my eyes fixed on the orthole , watching and waiting for it to move.
