章节摘录

Color in Chinese culture refers to the various colors that are considered auspicious or inauspicious. The Chinese character for color is Yan Se. In ancient China, the character more accurately meant color in the face. During the Tang Dynasty, Yan Se began to refer to all color. The Chinese idiom "Wu (five) Yan Liu (six) Se", which is used to describe many colors, may also suggest colors in general. Black, corresponding to water, is a neutral color. The I Ching, or Book of Changes, regards black as Heavens color. The saying "heaven and earth of mysterious black" was rooted in the observation that the northern sky was black for a long time. They believed Tian Di, or Heavenly Emperor, resided in the North Star.
