<<办公室设计OFFICE & CORPOR>>

内容概要

Modern office has adopted the work: space as a second habitation, although it can also be considered as the most important space of habitation, the first home for most of the population, who spend far more time in front of the computer and the telephone than sitting on the sofa in their true homes. For this reason some of the greatest advances in technology and construction concentrate on making the working environment more pleasant and favourable. This book offers an interesting sample of exemplary office spaces designed by architects of international fame. These spacious work areas have been efficiently distributed according to criteria of ergonomics and well-being, and combine an interesting interior design with the most recent technologies. Included are floor plans, technical specifications, materials used and commentary on each project, all provided by the designing architects themselves. Herzog & de Meuron, Kauffmann Theilig & Partner, Schmidt, Hammer & Lassen, Wiel Arets are just some of the architectural luminaries who have contributed to this fine selection.
